HOW TO CREATE A POST

- Log in to Wordpress:
<https://admin.on3.com/wp-admin/>

- Select “posts” from the left rail and then click “add new”

TITLE / HEADLINE

- Whenever possible include program affiliation (ie. Clemson, Ohio State, Kentucky, etc.)
- Use full names (ie. “Dabo Swinney, not “Swinney”)
- Include unique info (What is it about this story that other websites don’t have)
- Use descriptive, creative words
- Capitalize names, first words, but then lower case

BODY

- Enter body text
- Free (non-premium) articles must be 450 words or more
- Click “i” button in top navigation to get post stats (word count, character count, etc)

ADDING SUBHEADINGS AND OTHER BODY ELEMENTS

- To add elements like subheadings, photos, YouTube embeds, Twitter embeds, etc, use “blocks”.
- To use “blocks” click the (+) button in the top left corner.
- For this example we will add a subheading.

Five Bold Predictions as Buckeyes look to keep rolling against Maryland

COLUMBUS – Ohio State can already look back and see how far it has come in a month.

Now the Buckeyes are trying to make sure they don't get caught looking too far ahead to where they might end up.

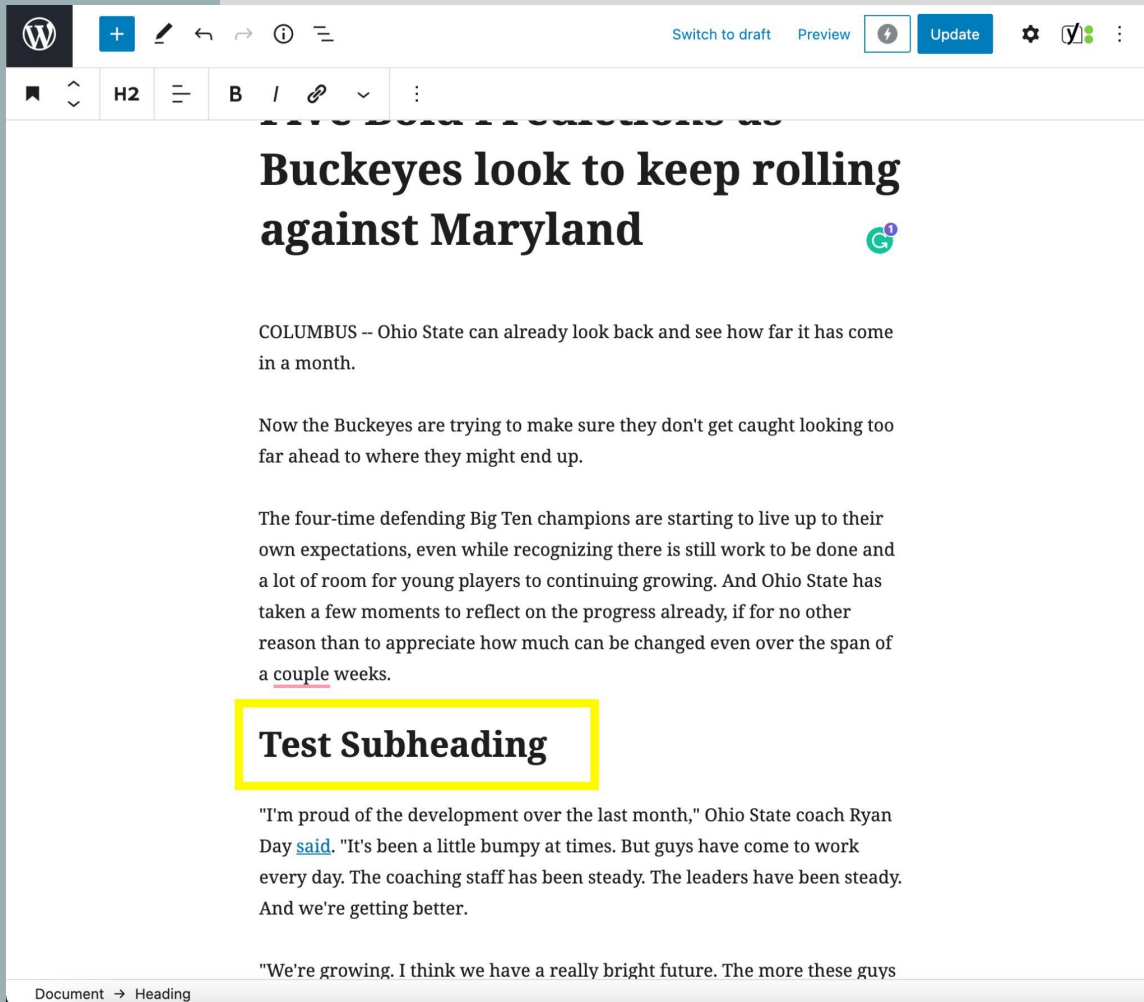

The four-time defending Big Ten champions are starting to live up to their own expectations, even while recognizing there is still work to be done and a lot of room for young players to continuing growing. And Ohio State has taken a few moments to reflect on the progress already, if for no other reason than to appreciate how much can be changed even over the span of a couple weeks.

"I'm proud of the development over the last month," Ohio State coach Ryan Day said. "It's been a little bumpy at times. But guys have come to work every day. The coaching staff has been steady. The leaders have been steady. And we're getting better.

"We're growing. I think we have a really bright future. The more these guys

But now the Buckeyes have to prove it when the stakes get higher. The offense is rolling and a healthier, maturing quarterback is asserting his command. The defense has worked through some growing pains and is showing undeniable signs of progress. Ohio State remains unbeaten in the Big Ten and in position to defend its conference crown yet again. Even the off date seemingly fell at the right time for the program. Clearly the Buckeyes would have preferred the first half of the season to not include a loss, and there's no changing that. They seem to be fully back on track to accomplish everything they planned before the year started as they gear up for a second-half surge starting on Saturday night at Indiana. 'There's still a lot of football left,' Ohio State coach Ryan Day said last week. 'We haven't done anything yet. But I think there is some confidence being built.
